Get Your Bike READY FOR WINTER

Next month marks the official start of winter, and that means cold, snow, and ice, which aren't your bike's best friends. Now is a great time to start thinking about the steps you will need to take to make sure your bike is prepared for winter hibernation. Here is a Winter Checklist to help you prepare:

- 1) Fill Your Tank: Fuel left sitting for a few months or more can gunk up and cause engine troubles. So, fill your tank, and add a fuel stabilizer, and then run the engine a short while to help the stabilizer work through the fuel system. Adding a stabilizer will protect your bike from sludge issues down the road.
- 2) Oil/Fluid Check: Now is the time to change the oil and check fluid levels. Add antifreeze, and NOT water! Then start the bike and let the oil circulate. If your bike is going to be in hibernation mode for 6 months or more, consider removing the spark plugs and squirting oil down into the cylinders.
- 3) Store your Battery: It's a good idea to purchase a Battery Tender designed for battery storage. Batteries need a clean and dry place where they can keep a charge, so you will be able to start your engine when hibernation is over.
- 4) Tires: If tires are left parked on your garage floor you can end up with flat spots and moisture absorption. If your bike has a center stand then use it instead of a kickstand. If that's not an option, then make sure to park your bike on a piece of plywood or carpet for better winter protection.
- 5) Make it sparkle: To protect your bike from winter corrosion, make sure you clean her well and dry her thoroughly. Wax painted surfaces and use WD40 on all metal surfaces but avoid the windshield and brake pads. If you have a chain drive, clean, adjust and lube it.
- 6) Use a Cover: It's always wise to keep your bike covered when possible, to give it an added layer of protection from the elements.

As Benjamin Franklin said: "An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure". Taking time to properly winterize your bike will help you avoid unnecessary problems and keep your bike in tip-top shape.

FLY & RIDE: Top 3 Destinations

With the significant expansion of motorcycle rental companies, now is the best time to throw your helmet into a carry on and go ride somewhere warm for a few days.

1. Phoenix, AZ: Dry desert, warm temps, and plenty of wide-open places makes Arizona an excellent fly & ride destination. Pick your way down portions of Route 66 or be adventurous and head off into the sand with only cacti to guide you.

2. Key West, FL: While the ride itself isn't all that exciting, it is an extremely relaxing run as you island-hop with the ocean on both sides making your way down to the southernmost tip of the United States.

Once there, enjoy the food and the eclectic scene in and around the most laid-back city in the country.

3. Austin, TX: Texas hill country is a riders' heaven as you twist and wind your way in and around the Texas countryside. The famous Three Sisters roads are not far off, and you can spend several days cruising the countryside, and as always, stopping at local diners to enjoy the flavors of Texas BBQ.
